To the Members of the Long Island Planning Board,

EBTAC's proposed changes to its site plan should be allowed. The documents available on www.townoflongisland.com state that EBTAC wants to remove language in its site plan that limits its customer seating to four people at a time. EBTAC is a business in the business district, please allow it to act like.

For the longest time the Spar served food and had seating for many customers. Now the Spar Restaurant is gone and EBTAC is opening a business across the street that plans to prepare and sell food. It is only fair that EBTAC be allowed to have seating for many more than four customers. EBTAC should be allowed to have the maximum seating allowable under local and state business, plumbing, and fire codes and laws. This is fair and legal proposal and is all that is being asked of the Planning Board today.

EBTAC is proposing to bring jobs to the community, revenue to the town, and food to the island. And all this in an economy that is preventing a lot of small businesses from even opening. I applaud the efforts of EBTAC and Anthony Donovan and hope that the Planning Board, as representatives of the Long Island community, bands together in an uplifting and unanimous vote in support of EBTAC and the American Dream.

Sincerely,
Anil Melwani
